Message from the Chief Minister

The ACT Government is continuing to implement policies that ensure more Canberrans can benefit from the transition to a zero net emissions future. The ACT is already powered by 100% renewable electricity, and the Sustainable Household Scheme is supporting more Canberra families to upgrade their homes and save money. Over the coming months, the Government will be rolling out more public electric vehicle charging infrastructure and reducing taxes and charges on zero emission vehicles.

Light rail is coming

With work starting on the raising of London Circuit to enable the construction of the next stage of light rail, commuters should be aware of changing traffic conditions, including:

- Some existing car parking spaces will be required for the establishment of three construction compounds.
- Traffic changes on Vernon Circle and at Parkes Way/Coranderrk Street.
- London Circuit will be closed between Edinburgh and Constitution Avenues for around two years.
- Arterial roads leading to the city will be busier during peak hours.

The project will create a level intersection between London Circuit and Commonwealth Avenue, enabling the next stage of light rail.

Everyday climate choices

Supporting the switch to electric vehicles

As zero emission vehicles become cheaper and easier to buy, the ACT Government is supporting Canberrans to make the switch.

If you're eligible, you can take advantage of free stamp duty and two years of free registration. You can also apply for a zero interest loan of up to $15,000 through the Sustainable Household Scheme to purchase an electric vehicle or install a vehicle charger in your home.

The ACT Zero Emissions Vehicle Strategy maps out the plans to make it cheaper and easier for Canberrans to own an electric vehicle in the ACT.

Stay alert to scams

Did you know that Canberrans lost a record $7 million as a result of scams last year?

Be careful if someone you don't know contacts you, or you receive a text or email asking for money or personal information.

ACT to go all-electric by 2045

As part of the ACT's net zero emission by 2045 target, fossil fuel gas will be phased out over the next two decades.

For most households, this will be a gradual transition. The best time to switch to electric heating or cooking in your home is when your current appliances reach the end of their life.

However, for those ready to upgrade now, there are government supports and incentives available including:

- the Sustainable Household Scheme,
- Home Energy Support Program, and
- Business Water and Energy Program.

If your gas appliance is reaching end of life, it might be time to choose a more efficient electric alternative.

Monash Primary making everyday climate choices

New double-glazed windows are providing Monash Primary School students with more comfort during Canberra's colder weather.

The recent upgrades to a number of classrooms are also reducing external noise and heating costs for the school.

Get where you're going faster

Don't forget rapid bus services linking town centres run at least every 15 minutes during peak periods on weekdays. View the timetable online.

Time for a spring clean?

Clean up around the house by:

- Taking unwanted items that might be useful to others to a charity or second-hand store.
- Booking a bulky waste collection – each household is entitled to one per year.
- Dropping off excess recyclables – including glass, metal, rigid plastic containers and flattened cardboard – at a Recycling Drop Off Centre.
